

The Dick Fleischer Memorial Bridge is another of countless victims of the floodwaters. The entire center section was carried away by the swift-running Eel River. However, the 50 year old Scotin span to the left withstood the attack and remains standing.