

THE MONTH

vironmental sanitation, and aviation medicine.

A record office maintains a health record on each man aboard, making proper entries as they occur.

Outside of the immediate area occupied by "Sick Bay," the department maintains battle dressing stations as well as decontamination centers which can be used to treat the injured in the event of a major disaster.

It is the responsibility of the medical department to constantly maintain adequate hygienic and sanitary standards to safeguard the health of the crew.

In attaining the honor of being "Division-of-the-Month," the men of the Medical Department attribute this to their willingness to work together as a team. Although each man has an assigned detail, he is called on frequently to perform additional work that arises.

The work in this department is continuous, and a concerted effort on the part of all its members is necessary to keep the Medical Department in top shape.

LTJG G. D. Espiegler, "H" Division's Administrative Assistant, and LT D. Lee, MC, USNR, acting Department Head, discuss divisional matters.

D. E. McHenry, HM3, applies an eyepatch.

M. B. Wong, HM3, compounds a cough syrup.
